Call for Papers

Submissions are open for the Journal of Onomastics, a peer-reviewed journal edited by the Gesellschaft für Namenforschung and the Faculty of Philology of the Leipzig University.

Journal Scope

Launched in 1964, the journal is published as an annual volume in print and, since 2023, simultaneously in an online edition (Gold Open Access). The focus is on all aspects of name research, including especially their interdisciplinary relations.

Publication languages are German, English and French.

The journal covers non-published research articles emerging from disciplines including, but not limited to:

- Onomastics
- Linguistics
- History
- Sociology
- Cultural studies
- Philosophy
- Geography

Article Types

The journal invites submissions for the following article types:

- Research articles
- Short reports: Short reports should be tightly focused with a clear account of the data, methods, and results.
- Methodology: Methodology articles should introduce and describe novel research methods.
